especially when opinion and speculation lbegin to harden into experience. One leading fact, not foreseen eight or ten years ago when this discussion began, is becoming clear now, through experience—the fact, namely, that the business of the world has increased at a rate that far exceeds the world's gold supply! and this great fact should modify opinions formerly held as to the bossibility of doing the business of the world successfully with gold alone Shrinkage of values, unprecedented in the mem ory of men now living, and continuing with a rigor that defeats all prediction and calculation, must have a cause. That cause is not local in its operation. Its effects are felf all over this world. In all the great commercial and findustrial nations on the globe the same decrease. its operation its effects are felt all over the world. In all the great commercial and findustrial nations on the globe the same depression of business is experienced that we feel in the Ubited States. History has furnished examples of the same thank in the sample of of the same thing, in times when the supply of the circulating medium had become so small as to dry up the sources of business and industrial

we tepeat that the one thing not uniterpated clearly eight or ten years ago was the enormous growth of business that has been witnessed throughout the world, requiring far more of the circulating medium than ever before Expansion of business during the last quarter of a century has been consider the most interpretable. sion of business during the last quarter of a cen-tury has been greater than was witnessed dur-ing two centurias formerly and the supply of gold, particularly during the last decade, has in no sort kept pace with it. Shortage of the cir-culating medium is the consequence business is singularly gold becomes dear—or, stated in different terms, the values of all other things are depressed, the shrinkinge has been unex-ampled in recent times, and there seems no way to arrest it except by breaking the effort of the money kings to rule out silver as a money metal and to hold to gold as the exclusive expression and to hold to gold as the exclusive expression of value.

Now if this is not a true judgment as to the been assumed that the world was suffering from the consequences of over-production and over speculation, but it is singular ladeed that this should be universal. The explanation seems inadequate. Silver is virtually cut off from its old function as an auxiliary measure of value the gold supply is not adequate to the measurement of the world's commodities, and the value of the commodities must be reduced to the shorter measure of the gold supply. This reduction follows an uncorrable law of a rational equation the members are equal, and they preserve their equality through all transformations.

cannot be changed in response to a popular de-mand, as in the United States and Germany, mand, as in the United States and Germany, that has taken her stand with Great Britain on this subject, is governed, even more than Great Britain, against the general popular interest and popular will. Will those mations holding and popular will. Will those unitions holding to the gold basis, it is quite possible that the United States, by coming great qualities of silver, might come to the silver basis and lose the circulation of gold entirely. But of this there appears to be loss immediate danger than formerly. While we do not think the tuited States can solve this question alone, yet we have no idea that congress will suspend the silver coinage law for, though the administration has declared itself dist neity for such suspendion, the people are not for it and will not permit it to the done.

This question is going to give the democratic party infinite trouble. President Cieveland has declared himself against the silver law unit in favor of its repeal. His secretary of the treasury reflects his opinion, and the treasure of the Inited States is steadily playing into the hands of the New York before the supposition of the heads postofices, all over the courts. Yet the president has classed post the self-ors among infensive putilsans, if we make the area among infensive putilsans, if we make the terms all sections their ware republicans. Now the question comes up, are the democratic posts fee self-ors for their party? I have the democratic posts for their party? I have the democratic posts for their party? This, at least, is an honest utterance. There are no false pretenses about it. To find demo-cratic officials like the collectors at New Haven and at Portland, who are too candid to uttar the subterfuges of their superiors at Washington, is granfying as an exhibit of honesty, how inuch soever one may differ from them as to civil service reform.

We repeat that the one thing not unticipated
was the enormous

Now if this is not a true judgment as to the present situation and its causes it becomes necessary to find some other. And what other is adequate? Concurrently with the great expension of the world's business and the necessity of a larger amount of the precious metals to carry it, silver has been demonstized by leading nations; all exchanges must be settled in gold or on the gold basis, and, as the world's supply of gold has not at all increased during ten years past, everything else grows cheapon as supply of gold has not at all increased during ten years past, everything else prows cheaper as gold grows dearer, raines of nearly all commodities are lower than ever before in the memory of fiving men wheat in England has not said so low for one hundred years as during a year past, prices of all other products, the world over, correspond, and the revival of business, with sinkencement of values, that has long been looked for and predicted, does not come. It has been assumed that the world was infleting trans en assumed that the world was suffering from

But even if we satisfy ourselves that this is Enteren It we satisfy curselves that this is the main cause of the severe lepress a of busi-nesse at home and abroad, it will not do to ge-sume that we shall find an easy remedy. Great Britain, the great commercian nation of the world, is not to be convince! She is governed solely by har money power, whose interests commit her firmly to gold alone. Her policy cannot be changed in response to a positive de-orly retected his opinion, and the treasurer of the latics states is steadily playing into the hands of the New York badking and gold syndicate. This already is producing dissanistiction in the democratic party. The races to-day are two in number the opening one being a dash of six furlouge for two-pear-olds. The first of Patay Buffy's got is in this race, a landsome brown fills called Lou D, and it is greatly to be regreted that Col. Ifom Richmond's filly by Gien Pudley out of Lila Fay, will not be here to meet here. Of six two-pear-olds brought here in 1878 by Nathail Cosmise, of Napa, Elfa Fay was the best up to the very bour she took else in Salem. She could always beat old sorrel Winters or Trade Dollar up to that time, and great expectations are to be formed of her daughter. The three Idaho coits brought down by Billy Leigh and Mike Femmer are something of extra quality. Avondale has the look of a distance goer and may be toneblesome in the last duy's race. In the shorter contests they will start the buy mare linky Biake, a very speedy daughter of Marmaduke. Should the day prove fair overhead, we look for a ravy fest race in the half mile contest. No sconer has the Multnomah Railway com pany secured the entire ownership of the Alt ma ferry from the Hacketts than they fine them selves likely to have another active legal contest over fis possession with an entirely new party J B Montgomery has given notice to the county commissioners that at their next term of court in October, he will apply for a license to run and operate a ferry on the same route which is now used by the Albina ferry. The landlags on ea, he side of the fiver are owned nespectately by Montgomery and R B. Wilson, and about hey sears and owere leased to the Hacketta, the then owners of the ferry, for a term of any years, which was the extent of time for which a ferry license could be obtained Since than, however, the legislature has ortended its time of existence of ferry licenses from five to fifteen years. selves likely to have another active legal contest however, the legislature has ortended it e time of existence of ferry licenses from five to fifteen years.

Now, Mr Montgomery wishes to know if the legislature has extended the time of his ferse, which he ruther thinks it has not. In which case he intends to refuse the present ferry on apany the right to land its hoat on his property after the expuration of he lesse. If the company cannot land its boat it cannot operate a ferry, and Mr Mont gomery will then proceed to run a ferry on as own necount. At least, that is the programme already marked out. A gentleman who has lad some experience in injunctions, however, sing gests hat there may be a different result. The legislature has given the present owners the turbushed that there may be a different result. The legislature has given the present owners the turbushed right to run a ferry at that point for ton years onger. It is also praided that no other ferry can be operated within the blocks of an existing ferry ithus it may be necessary to wait much the present incense has expired be fore another can be obtained. In which case the propin may have to get along without a ferry at that point for the next ten years.

TRAMPS DISPOSED OF.

The six tramps arrested night before last at the O. & C. depot were arraigned before the recorder yesterday on a charge of "assembling unlawfully and in such a manner as to cause public alarm," the complaint being sworn to by 14 H McMiller, who resides in the vicinity of their rendezvous. John Kelly waived examination, William Mctowan and Jake Wilson, apon examination, outd not furnish satisfactory evidence of their innocence, and nit three were held to answer before the grand jury, with bonds fixed at $100. The after three—Chartes Johnson, James Dexter and John O'Nell—disclaimed any acquantance or companionship with the former tiro, and pleaded accidental adjacency to the mat the time of arrest while on their way to Allina. () Nell, however, on fessed that a day or two before he had been 110 prisoned in Portland for Trun emass, and had been given twenty four hours to loave town the evidence being nu their favor they were declarged.
